

A map of Essex published during the English Civil War

BLAEU, Johannes.
Essexia Comitatus.

Amsterdam, c.1646, Latin text edition. Fine original colour. 420 x 530mm, with wide margins.

£650

Decorative map of the county of Essex, with armorials, a royal crest and putti, first published in Blaeu's atlas of the British Isles in 1646. Bottom left is a little depiction of London, with the Norman St Paul's Cathedral, 20 years before the Great Fire of 1666 destroyed the building. On verso is a diagram of ancient barrows with deep burial chambers.
