

AN EXTREMELY RARE MINIATURE MAP OF ARCTIC AMERICA

£480

SKU: 11118 | Categories: Canada | Tags: Bay, Canada, Hudson's, North America

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

An extremely rare map of Hudson Bay, one of 153 squares of a 'goose game', 'Geografia ridotta a giuoco per istruttione della giovane nobiltà veneziana', of which there is one known complete example, in the Biblioteca Nazionale Marciana in Venice.

The game was designed by Don Casimir Freschot, a Benedictine Priest and author of about 50 books on history and Venice, to facilitate 'the teaching of geography to the young Venetian nobility'.

Engraved by Anton Francesco Lucini, this was probably the earliest geographical game to be published. The 'board' comprised 153 squares containing small maps, arranged in a spiral, with a plan of Venice at the centre. Above the game were four larger maps of the continents, the rules, including the prizes and forfeits for landing on squares, and a dedication.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Cartographer	FRESCHOT, Casimir Don.
Date	1680
Extra Info	(51) Estotiland in America, nella Corona d'Inghiltera. Le terre Superiori sono Inhabitate e sotto il polo.
Publication	Venice: Giovanni Pare', c. 1680. Sheet 53 x 52mm.
Condition	Trimmed from a large broadsheet.
References	Charta Geographica' magazine, vol.1, page 76; plus insert with facsimile broadsheet.

