Hugo Allard's edition of the Jansson-Visscher map, updated with the 'Restitutio' view of New York, drawn during the short occupation by the Dutch in 1673. It shows the colony much enlarged since the English took it in 1664, with the defensive wall where Wall Street is now. Under Long Island the fleet of Vice Admiral Cornelius Evertsen, who took New York in 1673, is marked,
