

A very scarce plan of Dublin with vignettes

HEFFERNAN, Daniel Edward.
Dublin in 1861.

Dublin: Heffernan, 1861. Steel engraving on india. 630 x 940mm, wide margins.

£2,800

A detailed plan of Dublin with the important buildings shown in elevation, with oval prospects of the city in the four corners, two lists of events and a border of 32 oval views of buildings. The artist was an engineer, surveyor and valuator of Dublin, active in the mid-nineteenth century. He published similar plans of Bray and Wicklow and supplied 18 engravings for 'The Official Railway Hand-book' to Bray, including some that decorate this plan.

<http://architectureireland.ie/daniel-edward-heffernans-map-of-dublin-1861>

Stock ID :17296