

Early map of the roads from Chipping Campden to Montgomery

OGILBY, John.
 The Road from London to Montgomery North Wales...

London, c.1675. Coloured. 330 x 445mm.

£220

Route from the Four Shire Stone, near Chipping Campden in Gloucestershire, to Montgomery. Passing Evesham, Worcester and Ludlow on the way. Plate 44 from Ogilby's 'Britannia', the first national road-atlas of any country in Western Europe. It was composed of maps of seventy-three major roads and cross-roads, presented as trompe-l'oeil scrolls, each with a decorative title cartouche. It was the first English atlas on a uniform scale, at one inch to a mile, and the 'mile' Ogilby used became the national standard, the statute mile of 1,760 yards. Ogilby claimed that 26,600 miles of roads were surveyed in the course of preparing the atlas, on foot using a surveyor's wheel, but only about 7,500 were actually depicted in print. It was only after the 'Britannia' that roads started being shown on county maps.

Second state, with plate number bottom right.
