

Italy's Second War of Independence

WYLD, James.

A Map of the Theatre of War In Italy.

London: James Wyld, c.1859. Original colour. Lithograph, sheet 650 x 850mm, dissectioned and laid on linen, original blind-decorated cloth boards with gilt title.

£400

A map of northern Italy, published to illustrate news reports about the Second War of Independence, 1859, with the Kingdom of Sardinia allied with the France of Napoleon III against the Austrian Empire. The war was short and inconclusive, as both France and Austria had reasons to call it off. Wyld published a similar but smaller map for the First War of Independence, 1848: this map is larger and has the names of the various states and railways overprinted.
