

A detailed plan of Moscow in the 1630s

AA, Pieter van der.
 Moscou, Capitale Capitale de la Moscovie Suivant Olearius.

Leiden, 1719. 300 x 365mm.

£1,200

A finely engraved early plan of Moscow as it was when Adam Ölschläger (Latinised as Olearius, 1599-1671) visited the city in 1634 while on a trade mission that took him to Isfahan in Persia. It is a bird's-eye view-map, with the buildings shown in profile, orientated with north to the right, with keys lower left and under the map.
