

A map of Greece at the time of Demosthenes

Anonymous.

Antient Greece, designed for a Translation of Demosthenes.

London: A. Millar, 1757. Coloured. 405 x 440mm.

£240

A map of Ancient Greece with the Aegean and western Turkey, drawn to accompany 'The Orations of Demosthenes', translated by Philip Francis. Demosthenes (384-322 BC) was one of the greatest Athenian orators. He strove against the decline of Athens in the face of Macedonia expansion under Philip II and his son Alexander the Great.
