

A large map of Europe during the Crimean War

DANLOS, Alexandre.
 Theatre de la Guerre en Europe.

Paris: Danlos, 1854. Lithographic map on four sheets conjoined. Total 795 x 1100mm.

£600

A large map of Europe published as France, Britain and Turkey waged war with Russia, with the two main theatres being the Crimea and the Baltic. Around the map are inset plans of European capitals: Paris, London, Vienna, St Petersburg, Constantinople, Naples, Madrid, Lisbon, Berlin (as capital of Prussia), Warsaw, Copenhagen and Stockholm. A pair of vignettes of martial flags and trophies celebrates the alliance.
