

A caricature of Lady Londonderry in the uniform of the Tenth Hussars

HEATH, William.

Hyde Park May 27 1829. Sketches at the Review. One of the Tenth - When I was an Infant gossips would say - when I grew older I'd be a soldier. &c.r.

London: Thomas McLean, 1829. Etching with original hand colour. 260 x 380mm.

£175

A caricature of Frances Anne Vane (1800-65), Marchioness of Londonderry, riding a galloping horse side-saddle, in a skirted approximation of the uniform of the 10th Hussars (regiment of her husband, Charles, who adopted her surname on their marriage), with false moustache. The headline news of the 1829 review was that the Prime Minister, the Duke of Wellington, fell from his horse.

BRITISH MUSEUM: Satires 15930.

Stock ID :23399