

18th century plan of Paris in the decade before the French Revolution

ALIBERT, Jean.

Nouveau Plan Routier de la Ville et Faubourgs de Paris en 1780.

Paris: Alibert and Esnauts et Rapilly, 1780. Dissectioned and laid on linen, as issued, total. 565 x 810mm, folded into original slipcase.

£850

First edition of this well engraved map of Paris, adorned with a title cartouche to the top right showing the arms of the city of Paris, depicting a ship, symbol of the corporation of water merchants which then gave birth to the municipality of Paris. On the side panels there are tables of streets, parishes, colleges, hospitals, notable buildings, squares, etc. This plan closely reproduces Lattré's town plan published between 1768 and 1788
